Hello,

My name is Sarit, to sum myself in only a few words, I would say: diligent, hard working and highly motivated.

To add on, I would say I am a curious, fast learner, who has creative skill set and eagerness to learn, grow and work hard. I prioritize work and I always want to bring the best results I can, therefore, I appreciate criticism and value hard work.

I am a happy, positive person, I bring good atmosphere to my work place and I feel strengthened by both independent and team work.

My past military working experience in the collecting intelligence combat, as an operation data keeper, I have gained a wide experience of a functional and challenging working space, facing challenging work, problem solving, work under pressure and great respect to my team and bosses.

I am well-managed, organized and responsible and most importantly, I am highly passionate about the web development world.

I hope you find me a good candidate for your company.

Best regards,

Sarit
