

Sarit Rose Roytman

Hello,

My name is Sarit, I am Israeli and I have been to Sweden countless times and recently got married here too.

My journey to web development started by having creative ideas for websites and applications and wanting to develop more skills, I am still learning but I am a fast learner, determined and diligent. So far, I have made great progress through effort and hard work.

Through my combat military service in the Israel defense force I have gained qualities such as hard working, facing challenges, responsibility, discipline, time management, working under pressure, and the value of working in a team.

One of my skills is writing, it comes natural to me and I have always been passionate about writing and putting ideas, stories and products into words. I see writing as a necessary tool for any successful project and production.

In my skill set is also photography and social media where my creativity is expressed, and I hope my additional skills can assist and possibly be beneficial for the job.

I am creative and always want and willing to grow in any skill to excellency. I value and prioritize working hard to achieve goals. I am organized and well-managed, I like to build my projects with great thought and creativity. I'm looking forward to work and add diversity, creativity and excellency to the tasks I'm given and to my future team.

I hope you find me a good fit for your company.

Best regards,

Sarit
